

INTERNATIONAL CENTRE FOR ETHNIC STUDIES

Presents

A Film by Asghar Farhadi

Fireworks Wednesday (Iran)

From the Academy Award winning director of A Separation and The Salesman, Asghar Farhadi's Fireworks Wednesday is a taut, suspenseful story of marital intrigue and betrayal set against the backdrop of the Persian New Year. Rouhi, a young bride-to-be, is hired as a maid for an affluent family in Tehran. Upon arriving she is suddenly thrust in to an explosive domestic conflict. The wife is convinced her husband having an affair (with recently divorced woman living next door) and enlists Rouhi as a spy, to follow her husband, and confirm her suspicions. What Rouhi discovers, however, threatens not only their marriage but her own future.

Friday 15th February 2019 at 5:30 pm

ICES Auditorium, 2, Kynsey Terrace, Colombo 8